Hello again Jennifer...

I feel just the same way you do...my head is spinning with all of these emotions right now. I am so very happy to have this special bond between us.

This has never been a secret in my family nor in any of my past relationships. We can openly discuss anything you are willing to share with me about Emmilie. My parents, my wife and my family all know about us and that I have always known that I must be Emmilie's father (I have always wanted to know the truth ever since you called me in 1994 and very sad because I do not know her). I want to be able to share this with my family (my kids do not know yet). Oh, by the way, I have 3 girls here and Emmilie makes 4 (more info to follow).

I know things are different on your end with your family, and I respect that. Whatever you do or don't want your family (and Emmilie) to know is fine with me. Just let me know so that I can be on the same page with you.

We have a past together and a child together. My first and foremost needs are knowing my child....

Also, I need to know certain things but I cannot jeopardize my family to know. So I need to setup some rules here to keep my ass out of trouble and not end up divorced and splitting my family up (more info to follow on that too).

First... anything we say needs to be non personal and G rated. Anything else, feel free to discuss on the phone (you still never told me if calling is okay).

Second.... I do not want to put you into an uncomfortable place so lets first deal with this in a chronological order. I will only go into territory that you are comfortable with.

Third..... I need know everything about Emmilie. Do not hold anything back... I will not judge you on anything you have told her and I will not correct or change it... I just need to know.

Forth... everything that I do and send her way will be from this part of her family. It will be OK if you tell her that you got it for her... (if I cannot speak with her), but Dana will also be helping me pick things out.

I am open to you, but I have to protect my kids and family's feelings. I can handle anything you want to share with me. Please, I need to know Emmilie.

OK, so this turning into a deep email. I'm gonna stop for now and let you reply to me and tell me if this is okay with you. I have so much I want to share with you and so much I want to ask you. But, I've waited this long, so another couple of emails won't kill me.

I am so looking forward to hearing from you and finding out about the special daughter we have. I do not know if words can express what I am feeling and dealing with right now...but be patient as I will try.

I hope to hear from you very soon!!

Love,
Derrel
